THE BUSINESS MEN'S PICNIC

Annual Gathering on Tuesday was a Complete Success.

IT WAS AN IDEAL DAY

A Large Crowd Gathered at the Famous Park and the Day was one of Pleasure to All.

BALL GAMES WERE BIG ATTRACTION

On Monday while preparations were being made for the annual picnic of the Centre and Clinton County Business Men's Picnic association there were many gloomy hearts over the weather outlook. The frequent showers during the day had the appearance of continuing another day, but when the sun rose over the eastern horizon Tuesday morning the sky was bright and clear. The rains of the previous day had proved a blessing, and the weather man gave us all that could be expected for the big outing. The air was cooled to a very pleasant temperature and the dust of the roads was settled so as to make it pleasant for the many persons who drove to the park for the big picnic. In short it was an ideal day and could not have been more favorable as to weather conditions, and there was no cause for any one to fear rain during the day.

The first trains to the park in the morning began to bring the picnickers and by noon there was every indication of one of the largest crowds in the history of the association. Persons who live at the park stated that since the park was laid out there has not been as many vehicles lined up about the resort. The attendance was one of the largest of any picnic ever held there and the estimates as to the number of persons present were varied.

The big picnic was opened in the morning with a concert by the Repasz band, of Williamsport, and their music was one of the attractions throughout the day. The concerts were numerous and drew large crowds about the platform. The cornet solos by John Hazel were greatly applauded by the music loving people who attended the picnic. About ten o'clock the base ball fans assembled in the athletic field where the Orvis and Snow teams of the Centre and Clinton league played the first game of the day. With the exception of the first inning when both sides scored through errors the game was interesting and closely contested. Both teams were in fine shape and played professional ball. The score at the close of the game stood 4 to 3 in favor of the Snow Shoe team.

The inter-county clay pigeon shoot took place about eleven o'clock. We failed to get the score of the shoot. At the noon hour the park was literally covered with family picnic dinners and there was a rush at the tables for diners by those who did not care to take their dinners along. The big attractions for the afternoon were the ball games. The first game played was between Beech Creek and Woolrich. The fine condition of the teams made it one of the most interesting games of the day. The score was tied in the first inning and remained so until the seventh when Woolrich scored 3 runs. In the eight Beech Creek scored two runs, and at the finish Woolrich won by the score of 4-3. The second game was between Howard and Mill Hall. Mill Hall had the first bats and scored two runs off timely hitting and errors. That was the end of their score as the Millionaires settled down to business and their fielding was superb after the first inning. Howard scored one run at a time for five innings, making the score 5-2 in their favor. The games were three of the best that have been played by the teams of the league. All the games were well attended and the teams received a fair return as their percentage of the gate receipts.

During the entire day the dancing pavilion was crowded and this form of diversion was much appreciated by those who are fond of tripping the light fantastic. The merry-go-round was the attractive feature for the tittle folks, as well as many larger ones, while others rowed about in boats over the placid water of the lake.

The crowd was one of the most peaceful that could have assembled at the park. There was very little drinking about the grounds and the drunks were not in evidence. Only once during the whole day did we notice the police called into action and that proved a false accusation. Several young ladies, whose pocket-books had disappeared mysteriously, called on the police for aid. They pointed out two young men whom they thought had taken their purses. The young men were taken to headquarters and searched but nothing was found upon them to indicate their guilt and they were set free.

As evening began to approach many of the picnickers who had become tired began to make preparations for returning home and each train from six o'clock on was crowded with passengers on the homeward trip. Many persons came to the park in the evening who did not find it convenient to attend during the day, and returned on the late train at night.

The annual picnic of the Centre and Clinton association of 1908 was one of the most successful in the history of the association and will always be recalled with pleasure by those who attended.

The management is to be congratulated on the able manner in which they conducted the annual outing and for the peacefulness and orderliness that prevailed at all times.

Monsel-Jones

Not for some time has a wedding announcement caused so much surprise as when it was made known that Miss Katherine Jones and Harry H. Monsel, both of this place had been married almost three months ago. To add a little of the romantic to their marriage the young couple slipped off to Olean, N. Y., where on May 24 h they were quietly married by Rev. James W. Ashton, rector of the St. Stephen's Episcopal church of that place. Since that time they have been making their home in Bellefonte, and while it was rumored on several occasions that the wedding had taken place the facts never leaked out until the announcement was made Friday, even though they had been preparing to go to housekeeping for the past few days.

The bride is the bright and accomplished daughter of the late Wm. Jones of Bellefonte, and for a number of years has been employed as collector for the Bellefonte Electric company, a position which she filled satisfactorily to employer and patrons. The groom for some time has been in the employ of the Bellefonte Lumber Co. and is a well known and promising young man. On Thursday of this week they took up their abode in a nicely furnished home on South Allegheny street. Mr. and Mrs. Monsel have the best wishes of their many friends for a happy and prosperous voyage over the sea of life.

Fishing at the Masons' Camp.

You've heard tell how the big fish eat the little ones. Well, it is reported that there was a practical demonstration of this down at the Masons' Camp the other day. As the story was told, one of the campers who uses live minnows for bait, went to one of the many excellent bass fishing places which Bald Eagle Creek affords to exercise his skill in the piscatorial art. Just as his line was all out he felt a little jerk and began reeling in. He hadn't pulled in more than 10 feet when he felt a good hard jerk on the line. Inside of another 15 feet there was a good hard tug on the line and the disciple of Izaak Walton thought that little fish was surely making a desperate effort to get away, and he soon found that he had too big a fish to trust to the small line. By using a little strategy he finally landed the fish which proved to be a large German carp. When he opened the carp he found a good sized bass which was just a little smaller than the carp. When he opened the bass there was a large fish which the bass had swallowed and inside that one was the minnow which he used for bait. In fact there were four fishes of successive sizes on that one line. We give this as we got it and it will not take an oath to the facts.

Susan E. Rupp.

Mrs. Susan E. Rupp, widow of George Rupp, died at her home at Aaronsburg, Friday last of dropsy, aged 67 years, 9 months and 24 days. She leaves to survive four sons and two daughters, James, of Dakota; John, of State College; Frank, of New York City; Mrs. Emma J. Hinds, of Fiedler, and Walter and Jennie, at home. Funeral services were held Monday forenoon, conducted by Rev. C. F. Garrett, and interment was made in the Lutheran cemetery at Aaronsburg.

IN THE HANDS OF RECEIVER

Penna. Coal & Coke Company Unable to Meet Rentals

THE BONDHOLDERS ACT

Floating Debt is Small and Arrangements are Being Made for the Conservation of its Property

AND THE OPERATION OF ITS MINES.

Scranton, Pa., Aug. 17th—The Pennsylvania Coal & Coke Company, one of the biggest mining concerns in the bituminous fields of Western Pennsylvania, went into the hands of a receiver Saturday.

Judge Edwards appointed Thomas H. Watkinsiss receiver on the application of the Scranton Trust Company, trustee of the consolidated bondholders, which alleges the company, through its lessee, the Pennsylvania, Beech Creek and Eastern Coal Company, was unable to meet its rental obligations.

These rentals included the payment of all interest and sinking fund requirements and the payment on a sliding scale of dividends on the stock of the lessor company.

W. A. Lathrop president of the company, gives the intrinsic values of the properties at about $26,000,000 against a total indebtedness of about $13,000,000.

There was mined from the property during the year of 1907 about 4,000,000 tons of coal. The company owns over 100,000 acres of coal lands in fee, containing over 800,000,000 tons of coal.

The company has thirty-three modernly equipped collieries, owns its docks and barges in New York harbor, owns 1000 standard gauge railroad cars, 1000 coke ovens, 1260 dwellings and a number of water and electric light companies.

The amount of contracts now on the books of the Pennsylvania, Beech Creek & Eastern Coal Company, the lessee, which will be filled by the Pennsylvania Coal & Coke Company, amount to over 3,000,000.

The main offices of the company are in the Land Title Building, Philadelphia.

In a statement Receiver Watkins says: "The Pennsylvania Coal & Coke Company has a comparatively small floating debt and arrangements are under way for procuring advances of money sufficient for the conservation and operation of the property.

"With the rapid recovery that is now going on in the coal business, I see no reason why the coke company, if its property is kept intact and in operation should not earn enough from such operation to take care of all its obligations."

Aristocratic Pigs.

Work is under way on the new "sanitary pigsty," at the Danville State hospital for the insane, for which the legislature appropriated $6000, and palatial quarters are promised for the pigs to be housed there.

The sty will be warmed by steam heat, lighted by electricity, and the hogs will not partake of common swill, but will feast on "cooked food." This implies that as a feature of the "sanitary apparatus and equipment," the piggery is to have a cuisine. Protected from the cold and with their diet under constant surveillance the hogs could not do otherwise than prosper.

They will not be permitted to wallow in the mire, because there will be no mire. Everything will be kept immaculate. The building will be of two stories, and in all probability the hogs will sleep above stairs.

Fetzer—Heaton.

Charles Fetzer, of Lock Haven, and Miss Marcella Heaton, of Milesburg, were married Thursday forenoon at 11 o'clock, only the immediate friends of the contracting parties being present to witness the ceremony. After the wedding dinner was served they left on a honeymoon trip to Altoona and Pittsburg. The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Heaton, and one of Milesburg's estimable young ladies. The groom is employed by the Pennsylvania Railroad company as operator at the tower at Milesburg. Upon their return they expect to go to housekeeping.

ORVIS AND SNOW SHOE TIE.

Strong Teams of the Centre and Clinton League Contending for First Place.

Much interest is now centered on the Snow Shoe and Orvis teams of Centre and Clinton league as they are tie for first place and are scheduled against one another for the next game. Howard has pulled them both out of first place and now they have to decide their own fate.

For the past few weeks Snow Shoe has been having things pretty much to her liking and the game scheduled for Saturday was counted upon as being one of the most hotly contested of the season as the Millionaires were never in better shape and Snow Shoe had had a run of eight straight games. According to the rules of the league, the umpire, Donovan, of Dock Haven, ruled Vorhis, of the Howard team, and one of the Snow Shoe players out of the game. Twitmire of Bellefonte, who had been registered with Howard was put in the box for Howard and succeeded in holding Snow Shoe down to two hits while Howard had eleven off their opponents. The first man to the bat for Howard starting the batting streak which never let up during the game, and in the third inning the Millionaires scored 8 runs by their timely hitting and Snow Shoe's errors. Snow Shoe had three pitchers in the box but the Howard boys were in a batting humor and at the end of the sixth inning the Coal Barons gave up hopes of ever scoring a run and called the game when the score stood 14—0. Despite the fact that the score was one-sided the game never lacked interest on account of the Millionaires anxiety to shut the Barons out. The attendance at the game was about 400.

Orvis was scheduled against Woolrich at Woolrich for Saturday and captured the game which put them up a few points in percentage and tied them with the Barons. The score was 10—3.

The third Saturday game was Beech Creek and Mill Hall at the home team won by the score of 5—3.

Son Buried Injured Father.

In an altercation Saturday evening a few miles east of Altoona Row W. Reed is alleged to have struck his father, Samuel Reed, on the head with a stone, reddering him unconecious. Believing he had killed the aged man Row dragged the body down an embankment and covering it with sand and brush fled. Sunday morning Reed recovered consciousness broke from his crude tomb and summoned assistance. He was seriously injured and may not recover.

The father told the police he and his son had been visiting friends in Tyrone and that he was carrying the younger man's two-year-old child. Becoming tired he requested the son to take the burden, when a fight ensued. Young Reed has not been captured.

Bounty Money All Gone.

There will be no more state money for the scalps of noxious animals for a year at least. The last legislature appropriated $50.000 for this purpose, authorizing the payment of $4 for each wildcat, $2 for each fox and $1 for each mink or weasel.

Only $2,347 remains of the appropriation and bills for bounties were received at the auditor general's department Wednesday aggregating $22,979. The money on hand will be distributed pro rata among these claimants, who will thus get about 10 per cent of their claims.

Many hunters have made out well on the bounties. One Huntingdon county man collected $1,500. The next legislature will be asked to double the appropriation.

Weaver—Cox.

Chauncy I. Weaver and and Matilda A. Cox, of Blanchard, were married by Rev. H. W. Laye, pastor of the Church of Christ at 8 o'clock Monday evening at the parsonage in Lockport. The couple arrived there early in the morning, but Rev. Laye was in Canton, Pa., and did not return until in the evening consequently they waited all day at his home for the reverend gentleman to join them in the holy bonds of matrimony.

ALTOONA MAN WAS HELD UP

A Youth Commits Daring Deed in Allegheny Mountains.

PURSUED BY A POSSE

And was Captured in the Woods by a Brother of the Victim Whom He Robbed.

HAD BEEN READING JAMES' STORIES.

Altoona Pa., Aug. 12.—The most daring hold-up committed in this section of the state since the mountain roads were haunted by the famous robber, Lewis, took place late this afternoon when Carlton Parnell, a 16 years, overgrown youth, in emulating Jesse James, held up Charles Straney, one of the city's best known business men, while out driving with his mother and daughter on the Dry Gap road, leading from the city to the famous old Buckhorn tavern on the top of the Alleghenies.

Masked like the regular road agent Parnell relieved Straney of a sum of money and then stealing the horse and buggy drove away. He was captured later in the evening by Francis Straney, a brother, who held the youthful highwayman up as he was riding the horse down the mountain in an effort to evade a posse of officers that had started to scour the mountain to apprehend him.

Mr. Straney started for the drive about 4 o'clock, and to avoid street cars and automobiles went out the Dry Gap road. He had just reached the foot of the mountain when a masked man sprang into the middle of the road, halted Straney and compelled him to throw up his hands. He demanded what money Straney had on his person and then compelled him to back into the woods, and while keeping his victim covered compelled the woman and child to vacate the buggy. The highwayman crawled in, taking a shot at Straney, who sought cover by springing behind a big tree. With a shout and another shot or two the highwayman whipped up the horse and disappeared up the mountain road. Straney took his mother and daughter to a farm house a mile away then notified the police. A posse of officers started out to capture the highwayman, Francis Straney, a brother being among them. The highwayman was captured after he hak driven into the heart of the woods, unhitched the horse and was riding it down the mountain.

Straney saw him coming and held him up as he had done his brother only a short time previous. He was turned over to the police. Young Parnell said that he was a reader of Jesse James novels and that he and a couple of his companions had planned to emulate the great outlaw and this being his chance, he took it. He is now locked up and a charge will be entered against him for highway robbery.

Joseph Alters Injured.

Former policeman Joseph Alters received several injuries and a shaking up Tuesday afternoon by the falling of a scaffold. He was engaged in erecting a building for Contractor R. B. Taylor near Boalsburg where the new Harris township state road is being constructed. In some manner the scaffolding gave way and fell on Mr. Alters, breaking his nose, cutting a gash over his eye and otherwise bruising his face and breast.

He was brought to his home in Bellefonte Wednesday afternoon, looking very much the worse for his experience but none of his injuries are of a serious nature.

Boiler Exploded

Just about noon on Thursday the boiler of the J. C. Mulfinger mill at Pleasant Gap exploded, terribly scalding his son Gotlieb and badly wrecking the building. There was plenty of water in the boiler at the time of the explosion, what caused it to explode is a mystery. Both ends were blown out of the boiler and the escaping steam hissed out for a distance of over a hundred feet and Mulfinger who was near at the time received practically the full force of the escaping water and steam. Before he could escape to a place of safety he was terribly scalded from head to foot.

JOHN M. LIEB

Lifelong Resident of Bellefonte Passed to His Reward

John Mitchell Lieb, a lifelong resident of Bellefonte, died at his home on Willowbar street Tuesday morning at 3:05 o'clock. Mr. Lieb had been ill since last spring with diabetes, his condition gradually growing worse until he was compelled to take his bed about a week ago.

The deceased was a son of John M. and Margerie Lieb and was born in Penns valley February 17, 1851, being over 57 years of age at the time of his death. When he was three years of age his parents moved to Bellefonte, where he has since resided and followed the occupation of a plasterer. He was a member of the Methodist church of this place and a man with a large number of friends in this community. In the spring of 1876 he was married to Matilda W. Geiswhite, who survives him. Two Two daughters, Mrs. Katherine Taylor and Mrs. Eliza Osmer of Bellefonte, also survive. One daughter Margerie died last March. One brother, Andrew, of Bethlehem is living.

The funeral will be held from the house Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock. In the absence of the pastor, Rev. C. C. Shuey will conduct the services and will be assisted by Rev. M. C. Piper, of Milesburg. Interment will be made in the Union cemetery.

Gotlieb Mulfinger Dead.

Gotlieb, the son of J. C. Mulfinger who was so badly scalded by the boiler explosion at the Mulfinger mill at Pleasant Gap last Thursday noon died at the Bellefonte hospital Monday morning about 2:30 o'clock. At the time he was brought to the hospital it was not known how badly he had been scalded, as he walked from the mill to the house, a distance of about 50 yards after the accident happened, and when he was brought to the hospital he walked to the buggy and from the buggy into the hospital. But the extent of his scalding was such that he succumbed at the time mentioned. The young man was aged 18 years and 7 months.

He is survived by his father J. C. Mulfinger and his stepmother and the following brothers and sisters: Mrs. Katherine Grenoble, John M., Gertrude, Morris, Elward and Frederick. The funeral was held Wednesday at 10 o'clock and services were conducted by Rev. D. A. Sower. Interment was made in the cemetery at Pleasant Gap.

Attempted Brutal Crime.

Considerable excitement was raised in this community Monday evening when it was learned that Wm. Sampsell had attempted an assault upon Catherine, the six-year-old daughter of Mrs. Mary Ryan. The little girl had often been in the company of Sampsell who frequently took her to the moving picture shows and purchased her candy. About 7.30 on the evening mentioned he lured the child to the rear of the Bush Arcade where the brutal and fiendish act was attempted. Several of the office men on the second floor of the Arcade happened to go to the rear of the building at time and discovered his crime. Information was immediately given and a warrant taken out for Sampsell's arrest. He was taken before Squire Keichline where he waived a hearing and was committed to jail to await trial at court.

The fact that Sampsell is about 60 years of age has added to the atrociousness of the crime and such an act is almost beyond the belief of human reason.

Girl's Body Found in Creek

The dead body of pretty sixteen-year-old. Bessie Price, a teacher in a local Sunday school of Germania, Lycoming county was found in a creek at the edge of the little town. Her bedroom door was locked when her mother called her, and the boy who entered the apartment through a window found it empty. The girl had stolen from the room some time during the night. Though a suicide theory is generally accepted, a number of the girl's friends believe that she may have gone on an early morning walk and fallen in the creek. Mrs. Price, the girl's mother, says that if her daughter really killed herself the act was caused by the girl's dissatisfaction with her station in life due to reading light love stories.

Death of a Child.

Helen, the two-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Grafmyer, of Milesburg, died Monday morning August 17th 1908 of whooping cough. Funeral services were held this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock by Rev. M. C. Piper. Interment was made in the Troxiville cemetery.

MOB RAGES IN SPRINGFIELD

Angry Citizens Defy Soldiers Beat Negro Criminals.

TROOPS ORDERED OUT

Negro Assaulted a White women and a Mob is Wreaking Vengeance. The Police and Firemen Were Helpless.

THE NEGRO SECTION IS BURNED.

Springfield, Ill., August 15.—Springfield is in the hands of a mob of enraged citizens who began last night to wreak vengeance on negro residents for an assault committed yesterday by George Richardson, a negro, on Mrs. Hallam, a white woman. At 1 o'clock this morning the whole east end of town burst into flames, the torch having been applied to several negro houses by some of the more desperate mobbers. Two men are already dead and probably two score others are injured, mostly negroes. The rabble is sweeping through the streets attacking every negro met. All the local militia are on duty and half a dozen companies from other cities are rushing here on special trains. Still other companies are ordered to hold themselves in readiness. The fire department is at present helpless to combat the flames in the negro quarter on account of threatening attitude of the mob towards the firemen.

Richardson and another negro, wanted for murder, were taken last evening from the Springfield jail to Bloomington and later to Peoria.

Negroes in various parts of town have been attacked by the mob and in two instances the negroes have turned with considerable effect upon their assailants. In one mix-up a trooper attempted to separate the combatants and was nearly overwhelmed by the disorderly persons, who were in pursuit of several negroes. A call for help brought several cavalrymen to the scene, but they were all disarmed and their guns were carried away by the rioters.

Further Facts for Coleville.

In our suburban village, there are five Christian denominations represented. Most certainly they should not be denied any privileges they wish to enjoy for the moral welfare of their families. All Coleville knows that no one denomination there is strong enough to sustain a successful Sunday school. For many months, if not years, there was none. As a S. S. Missioner, it pained me that my hands were tied until Presiding Elder Bell, knowing the situation, opened the Methodist church door for me. The five denominations then responded. A Bible School (never soliciting a penny from Bellefonte) was opened with 81 members, March 4th, 1906 and continued evergreen until Palm Sunday, April 12 1908 when the officials locked the church door against the school because it was union and not Methodist.

They say "all are welcome" that is, if they come as Methodists. This, they will never do and there is no ground for blame. Furthermore, concerning that church, it should be said that the lot and offerings in money were given with the understanding that it should be union. Without consulting the generous donors, it was made Methodist.

The allegations of a correspondent in yesterday's Daily News, will pass for what they are worth, having little, if any weight with those in position to to know the Coleville situation.

Divine Providence manifestly favore the Olive Branch Chapel now in construction. Its doors will be open to "Jews and Gentiles" with some certain connection with the Bellefonte Ministerium. Offerings in aid of building are handed to me from at least four denominations in town and not one refusal as yet. "Thy kingdom come." Believe me, the answer to our Lord's prayer is coming.

R. CRITTENDEN.

The Amendment Vote

A goodly number of the newspapers of the state have fallen into the error of supposing that the constitutional amendments now being advertised throughout the state will be submitted to the popular vote next November. They must be acted upon by the legislature of 1909. If that body approve they will be submitted to the vote of the people in November, 1909. They are published now in accordance with the requirement of the organic law and for information. If the people believed they should be adopted, or that any of them should be rejected, they have the opportunity of expressing their views to their rep a tives before the next meeting of the legislature. The average legislator would be glad to vote the way his constituents desire.

OUR NOISY CONVENTIONS.

Very Unlike the Political Gatherings of Sixty Years Ago.

For many years national conventions were comparatively quiet and business-like affairs. The delegates journeyed from their homes singly to the place of meeting, where they convened in an ordinary hall. No nominating speeches were made, and there were no cheering crowds. Balloting proceeded with as much decorum as in a parish meeting.

Now cities clamor for the "concession" of a national convention and subscribe a $100,000 guarantee in order to obtain the privilege. Delegates go in special trains, attended often by bands and banner bearers, and each delegation takes up a section of a hotel for its exclusive accommodation.

The convention hall is a vast auditorium, and spectators hold tickets to the show at prices which are the envy of an operatic impresario. Into the huge structure 10,000, 12,000 and even 20,000 people swarm, completely surrounding and hanging over the few hundred delegates.

In the shouting and tumult there is no opportunity for deliberation, while debate is a physical impossibility except to the few whom nature has endowed with throats like organ pipes.

A national convention voice is a rare gift. Some of the best speakers in the country are flat failures in this extravagant and roaring arena. Of speechmaking there is no end, but argument would be ill timed and misplaced. The true and only aim of convention oratory is to rip the blue empyrean and split the ears of the clacquing boomers.

Well may Mr. Bryce have said in his "American Commonwealth:" "A European is astonished to see 800 men prepare to transact the two most difficult pieces of business an assembly can undertake, the solemn consideration of their principles and the selection of the person they wish to place at the head of the nation, in the sight and hearing of 12,000 other men and women."—Boston Globe.

Paul Revere's Boston Massacre.

A rare colored engraving entitled "The Bloody Massacre Perpetrated In King Street, Boston, on March 5, 1770, by a Party of the Twenty-ninth Regiment," from the hand of the famous Paul Revere, is in the possession of a local member of the Connecticut Valley Historical society. Copies of this engraving are scarce, only a few being known to collectors and the Massachusetts Historical society and the Pocumtuck Valley Historical association being among the few holders. The engraving shows a view down King street toward the old statehouse and a file of soldiers firing upon a crowd of citizens, several of whom are stretched out in death. The buildings are well drawn, but the figures of soldiers and citizens are crudely done, the legs and faces being fearfully and wonderfully executed. At a sale in Boston in April, 1901, a copy of this engraving was sold at auction for $800.

At the bottom of the picture is this inscription: 'Engraved and Printed and Sold by Paul Revere, Boston.' Below this is a poem upon the massacre, while underneath this is the following: "The unhappy sufferers are Messrs. Saml Gray, Saml Maverick, James Caldwell, Crispus Attucks and Patk Carr, killed. Six wounded, two of them (Chris'r Monk & John Clark) mortally."—Springfield Republican.

Piercing the Wall of Rome.

A correspondent in Rome has taken the first opportunity of looking into, or, rather, through, the breach just made under municipal authority in the Aurelian wall. It has been made quite frankly and candidly for the sake of new Roman suburbs. See what it is to set up suburbs to a walled city! Rome is only partially walled, of course, but this piece of rather late antiquity, but still antiquity, the great brown range of brick, was for a great space of the Pincian hill complete. The three gates piercing it were sufficient for the carts on their way to and from the outer world of the Campagna. And one might have thought that the few hundred yards that the suburban had to walk or drive in order to get in at one of those historic gates were not too great a tax to pay to history and archaeology. But it was deemed too great, and the wall is broken, not by a new gate, but by a mere cutting, which disfigures as well as destroys.—London Chronicle.

Cities Have Most Babies.

It used to be held, says the Medical Times, that city families would die out in three generations were they not constantly replenished from country stock. But modern sanitary science is certainly changing all that. The state department of health report of New York for October shows the city mortality of 16.9 per 1,000 as compared with a country death rate of 15.9 per 1,000, but the city birth rate is 28, and the country only 18 per 1,000, showing a net increase of population in the cities of nine per 1,000. Of late years the city death rate has declined faster than the country, although it is still somewhat greater. But the country is safer than the city for infancy and old age.

A Kaiser's Revolver.

Emperor William II. is never without his revolver, and he is extremely skillful in the use of the weapon. It is inspected and freshly primed every morning, so as to make sure it is in perfect working order. Firmly convinced that he is going to die by the hand of an anarchist, this fate having been prophesied for him long ago, he is determined to make a stern fight for his life and to have, at any rate, the if he falls of inflicting on his assailant.—Lon-

NEW YORK'S ISLANDS.

The Big City Has Forty-nine Within Its Limits.

"Rome boasted of her seven hills, but New York will be seven times as great, for it is being built on forty-nine islands," said the man who delights in studying maps and rounding phrases. "That may surprise the person who has the impression that Manhattan Island is about all there is to New York, but if he will look at his atlas he will find that there are forty-eight other islands within the boundaries of the metropolis.

"Manhattan is the principal island in the group now, but New York is young yet as compared with the age of Rome when that city was at the height of its glory, and 100 years from now the center of the city's population and business may be shifted to one of the other islands. And assuredly, if one takes into consideration the growth of the city in the last twenty years and the probability that this growth will continue, the end of another century will see almost every one of the forty-nine islands built up with residences or factories.

"Next in size to Manhattan Island is Staten Island, which is destined to have its interior filled with residences and its fifty mile water front lined with factories and mills. Give Richmond borough a subway connecting with Manhattan and its population will be doubled in five years.

"And so it will be with all the other islands that now are practical wastes. All of them are waiting for transportation facilities.

"It is because the majority of the islands within the boundaries of the city are practically uninhabited and useless that comparatively few persons know of them. Ask the average citizen to give the location of the Isle of Wight and he will leap across the map to the coast of England, when, as a matter of fact, that piece of land is cut in two by the New York boundary just before that imaginary line of demarcation is lost in the ocean between Shelter island and Rockaway beach.

"Ask any other man presumably well informed concerning New York to give the location of Oyster island and he will be obliged to look at the map to find it in the upper bay, a short distance south of Bedloe's island, whose stage name is Liberty island.

"Out in Newtown creek there is what might be called an inland island, but nobody seems to have ever taken the trouble of giving it a name. Down off the south shore of Staten Island, in the Great Kills, is another nameless island, and it is just large enough for a flock of sea gulls to hold a carnival. Up in Pelham bay there are a half dozen islands that have never been officially recognized by the map makers, and out in Jamaica bay real, full grown islands, nearly a score of them, are called marshes, bars, hassocks, meadows and points.

"Horse island, in the bay back of Arverne, is another part of New York that few persons know anything about, while Shooters island is so little known outside of shipping circles that those persons who were invited to the launching of Emperor William's yacht Meteor several years ago were obliged to look up the place on the chart.

"Barren island belies its name in more ways than one, as its odors and enterprises indicate, while an island in Staten Island sound to which that name might truthfully be applied has the undescriptive title of Prall's, and near to it is another island as large as City Hall park that has been ignored totally by the geographers.

"In Far Rockaway bay there is another extensive area of land that has no official name, while in the East river off Thirty-fourth street is an island that was of enormous importance to the Belmont tunnel builders which is not permitted to have insular dignity, being restrained to the name of Man-of-war reef.

"Among the other islands in the city which have not been mentioned, but which are better known, are The Twins, North and South Brother, Hunter, Hoffman, Swinburne, City, Ward's, Randall's, Riker's, Berrian, Blackwell's, Governors, Coney, Ellis and the western end of Long Island."—New York Herald.

Water Without Stopping.

The Lake Shore railroad has finished spending more than $1,000,000 to enable all its trains to take water while running. The line is the first in the country to be entirely equipped this way. Henceforth neither freight nor passenger trains will need to stop or slow down for water. On a few other roads using such appliances only a few passenger trains are provided for.

This extensive improvement by the Lake Shore marks the passing of the old fashioned water tank. It is believed that all other large railroad systems will adopt similar regulations in order to save time and wear and tear on equipment. This Vanderbilt line now has eleven places between Chicago and Buffalo at which water supply is scooped up by passenger trains going forty to seventy-five miles an hour and by freights going twenty-five to thirty-five miles an hour.

Every fifty miles troughs have been built. They are 2,000 feet long. At each place of this kind the road has spent over $100,000. Besides, all engines have had to be adjusted to the transition.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

A Model Queen.

The closest examination of the career of Queen Alexandra from the day that she took her place as Princess of Wales will triumphantly demonstrate that she was never guilty of a single breach of tact and good taste and that her life has been uniformly that of an exemplary wife, mother and leader of society.—Newcastle Daily Chronicle.

Just a Fish Story.

Forty years ago, when my father was captain of an East India trading ship, while off the coast of Africa near the equator the ship's carpenter was taken sick and died. He was sewed up in canvas, and with him were sewed his kit of tools and grindstone for ballast to sink him. Services were held and the body committed to the sea.

Four days later the ship's boy fell overboard, and a great shark came up under the stern and swallowed the boy before he could be reached.

The next day the shark was still following the ship. A shark hook was baited and put over the stern, and the shark was caught, but was so large it could not be taken on board, and they were obliged to shoot him. He looked so plump and large the mate, who was an old whaler, wanted to go over the side and cut the fish open. He was lowered over and cut a hole in the shark and was surprised to hear voices and on looking in saw the ship's boy turning the grindstone for the ship's carpenter, who was sharpening his ax to cut their way out.

My father, who is eighty years old, can vouch for this that it is a fish story.—Boston Journal.

His Old College Chums.

A conductor sent a new brakeman to put some tramps off the train. They were riding in a box car. The brakeman dropped into the car and said, "Where are you fellows going?" "To Atchison." "Well, you can't go to Atchison on this train, so get off." "You get." came the reply, and as the brakeman was looking into the business end of a gun he took the advice given him and "got." He went back to the caboose, and the conductor asked him if he had put the fellows off. "No," he answered. "I did not have the heart to put them off. They want to go to Atchison, and, besides, they are old schoolmates of mine." The conductor used some very strong language and then said he would put them off himself. He went over to the car and met with the same experience as the brakeman. When he got back to the caboose, the brakeman said, "Well, did you put them off?" "Naw, they're schoolmates of mine too."—Wellington (Kan.) News.

Halevy and the Duc de Morny.

It may not be generally known in what circumstances Halevy owed his advancement in the French civil service to the Duc de Morny. The duke, an amateur of the arts, had begun to write the libretto of a comic opera of which Offenbach was to provide the music. He found that he had not the time—or perhaps that he had not the talent—to finish it. He sought a collaborator, and Halevy came to the rescue and kept his secret. When, therefore, the office of the ministry of Algeria, which he held, was suppressed he had no hesitation in asking his august patron for the post which he sought on the Journal Officiel. "The very thing!" exclaimed the duke. "There is six months' vacation when the chamber is not sitting, so that you will have plenty of time to write for the stage." And he gave him a note to the head of the department, consisting of the simple words, "Make arrangements to give the bearer the post for which he will ask you."—Westminster Gazette.

Nor a Hospital Either.

"Talking of our British cousins?" inquired the tax attorney of the Southern Pacific. "Well, I heard one the other day. Big fat Britisher shoved into one of those compartments at the last moment. There was an American in there reading his newspaper.

"'It's sixty miles to my station,' remarked the Englishman, 'and, I say, old chap, I'm treating myself for a wounded foot, and I say, if you don't mind, I'll put some of this iodoform on my ankle. Beastly smelling stuff!'

"'Go ahead,' said the American. But when he got the full odor of it he shoved up a window and pulled out a cigar and lighted it and began puffing away vigorously.

"'Here, here, my good fellow,' protested the Englishman, 'this is no smoking compartment!'"—San Francisco Chronicle.

As Others See Us.

"Mem-sahib," asked a young East Indian girl of her English mistress, "why do you wear those sad colors? I don't like them."

"I am in mourning, Lattoo. It is the custom of English ladies."

"But black is the color of night, mem-sahib, and yet you believe that when you die you go to heaven at once. Then why not be glad for your friends who die and wear colors such as we see in birds and flowers and falling water when the sun shines? God doesn't make your colors. Ah, well, Christians are strange people!"—From "The Indian Alps."

A Woman's Country.

The Frenchwoman may not be so classical in form or outline as many of England's beautiful women, but she has undoubtedly the gift of charm, and by virtue of this elusive, tantalizing quality she has for centuries bewitched and enthralled all the men of her country. France today is the most woman ridden country and also the most peaceful, prosperous and contented. The women rule by charm.—Stormy Petrel.

The Old Master.

Mistress (to new servant)—I must impress upon you, when you go to the dining room, not to try to get the dirt off the 'Old Master' with a wet rag, but use a dry, soft cloth only. Servant—Mercy on us, marm; be I to wash the master?—London Tatler.

The world is dying for want not of good preaching, but of good hearing.—Boardman.

The Situation at Coleville.

A number of articles relative to the Sunday school at Coleville have at different times appeared in the various newspapers of Bellefonte written by one who seems to think that the society, "The Methodist Episcopal church" that has been there for a number of years doing good work in that community, is not able to cope with the situation. The writer thinks that the M. E. church with its vast experience of a successful past history in this and other countries, is able to conduct a successful Bible or Sunday school.

The writer of the articles which appeared in the Bellefonte Daily News August 3rd and 8th, quotes the following scripture as his motto: "Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thy self." The scribe of said motto seems to forget his motto and goes into his neighbor's field of labor and tries to conduct a Union Sunday school that is really not needed or even demanded, save by two or three individuals "office seekers."

In all christian communities where our society has been established, and all the residents can support (as in Coleville) it has always been the policy and courtesy of other societies to stay from the field, but this courtesy is at present not being shown the Methodist Episcopal church at Coleville by the parties trying to build the Olive Branch chapel. The Methodist Episcopal Sunday school officers are efficient and capable of instructing all who wish to attend such a school for Bible study and instruction. One and all are welcome to attend its sessions each Sabbath morning.

It is not necessary for any person to "sit on rough boards and in a cold building" to study the word of God unless they are prejudice. No not as long as there exists a Methodist Episcopal church so beautifully situated and equipped as at Coleville for the study of God's word. Come all, irrespective of denomination, and join in this good work, the studying of God's holy word.

Renovo's Old Home Week.

Renovo, "The Railroad City," always plans things on a big scale. This time she plans something bigger than has ever been attempted by a city of her size. The Renovo Home Coming, Sunday, August 30, to Saturday, September 5, will be the biggest celebration of the kind that has ever been undertaken in Renovo and a splendid program is being arranged for the entertainment of her visitors.

The program includes free tours of Renovo and vicinity by automobiles; and all of the launches in Renovo, numbering over 200; will be pressed into service to give her visitors a free regatta on the old West Branch river. These are just a few of the plans which the committee is formulating for the entertainment of Renovo's guests and the pleasure of her citizens during the week set aside for her big celebration.

About four thousand invitations are being sent out and every former resident of Renovo, whether receiving a mailed invitation or not, is heartily invited to attend. All those who can plan to be present are urged to notify V. R. Megill, Secretary of Renovo's Home Coming, that arrangements may be made for hotel accommodations, etc. It is expected that the number of visitors will reach many thousands.

Insane Farmer Buried Money.

Charles Ayres, a Potter county resident who has just been taken to the insane ward at the county home at Coudersport, is giving the authorities some new experiences. The Potter County Democrat says:

"Charles Ayers, the well known and successful South Hill farmer, who was last week declared insane, hid in the ground somewhere on his farm, a considerable amount of money, and refuses to tell where he placed it. Among Mr. Ayres hallucinations was one that a number of men intended to destroy his house and he stated before he was taken in charge and placed in the county home that he intended to do the job himself. At different stores in town he bought a quantity of powder, making an aggregate of about nine pounds, but did not get an opportunity to use it.

Foxy Editor.

Three young females called at this office Friday afternoon to tongue lash the editor for exposing in the Daily Spirit a "drunk" they were reported to have been on a few night's before that. We listened to their story as they described their carriage trip in the night and what happened from the time they left town until they returned in the early morning darkness together with giving us the names of their well jagged escorts and when they were fiercest in their denunciation we were compelled to stop them and tell them that the Spirit had not said a word either of them or their trip and that we didn't know a thing about it until they had just told us. They left to look for the fellow who had told them the Spirit had published them. A little quick on the trigger that time.—Clearfield Public Spirit.

IRVING AND MONTAGUE.

One of Their Practical Jokes That Scared Their Friends.

In Scott's "The Drama of Yesterday and Today" the author tells of a practical joke played by Henry Irving and Harry Montague upon a number of their friends, and "in its execution was seen the first dawning glimmer of that tragic force that was ultimately to find expression in Hood's 'Dream of Eugene Aram' and 'The Bells.'" Irving and Montague, hitherto the best allies, began to quarrel on their way to a picnic, and their friends feared some tragic consequences. After luncheon both of the men disappeared.

Smale's face turned deadly pale. He felt that his worst fears were being realized. With one wild cry, "They're gone—what on earth has become of them?" he made a dash down the Dargle over the rocks and bowlders, with the remainder of the picnic party at his heels.

At the bottom of a "dreadful hollow behind the little wood" a fearful sight presented itself to the astonished friends. There on a stone sat Henry Irving in his shirt sleeves, his long hair matted over his eyes, his thin hands and white face all smeared with blood, and dangling an open clasp knife.

He was muttering to himself in a savage tone: "I've done it! I've done it! I said I would! I said I would!"

Tom Smale in an agony of fear rushed up to Irving, who waved him on one side with threatening gestures. "For God's sake, man," screamed the distracted Smale, "tell us where he is!"

Irving, scarcely moving a muscle, pointed to a heap of dead leaves and in sepulchral tones cried: "He's there—there! I've done for him! I've murdered him!"

Smale literally bounded to the heap and began flinging aside the leaves in every direction. Presently he found the body of Harry Montague lying face downward. Almost paralyzed with fear, Smale just managed to turn the head around and found Montague convulsed with laughter, with a pocket handkerchief in his mouth to prevent an explosion. Never was better acting seen on any stage.

FOODS OF ITALY.

Specialties of the Friggitrici in Naples and Genoa.

Huge meaty chestnuts are found everywhere in Italy. Peeled and boiled in a reddish broth seasoned with laurel leaves and caraway seeds, the nuts are palatable. About two dozen of the large kernels are sold for a penny. In both Genoa and Naples the friggitrici are interesting, and some of their specialties are well worth a trial if one can forget the unappetizing appearance of cooks and cooking appliances. One friggitrice attracts attention to a tray of golden balls which she piles in a pyramid. The golden balls are artichokes. They are boiled in salted water until tender and are put in a pan over steam to keep them hot until a customer appears. For threepence the vender will take one from the steaming pan, dry it, dip it into batter and pop it into the hot oil. A moment later a golden brown ball, delicious and crispy on the outside and tender and succulent on the inside, is handed to the purchaser. The frying is managed in such a way that when the fritters are taken from the kettle they are very hot, but so dry on the outside that they scarcely soil the fingers when eaten from the hand. Another friggitrice specialty is that of cheese balls. They are made of paste filled with grated cheese and fried. Mashed chestnuts, rice, chopped chicken and many vegetables are used to vary the fillings for the popular fritos. Some of the frying kettles are portable, and the friggitrici have regular routes like the milkmen, where they tap at the basement door, get their orders, take their tiny bellows and blow up the charcoal until it glows and then cook the breakfast of meat balls or rice cakes or artichokes, which are sent in hot.—Leslie's Weekly.

Solenodons.

Only two species of that singular insectivorous mammal, the solenodon, are known, one inhabiting Haiti and the other Cuba. They differ chiefly in the color and quality of their fur. Solenodons are quaint looking animals, rather larger than rats, with long flexible snouts and naked tails. They are nocturnal and obtain their food by digging in the soft ground for insects, etc., with their snouts. Their brain capacity is small, and they are said to have the curious habit when hunted by dogs of hiding their heads in the nearest holes and leaving their bodies exposed.

The Clock Was Wrecked.

Biway—Use an alarm clock nowadays? Jigsup—No; never tried one but once. Biway—How was that? Jigsup—Well, you see, the first time it went off I didn't exactly know what it was, and so I said, "Oh, for heaven's sake, Marta, shut up!" Marta happened to be awake, and—well, that is how it was.—Liverpool Mercury.

Chivalrous Chicago.

In Chicago more than in any other place is woman regarded in the light of a thing of beauty and a joy forever. There is hardly a man in Chicago who does not esteem feminine loveliness as something beyond price—something to live for, to strive for, to suffer for and if necessary to die for.—Chicago Inter Ocean.

A Historical Mystery Solved.

The man in the iron mask explained. "I let my wife cut my hair," he sobbed.

Herewith all tendered him respectful sympathy.—New York Sun.

THE FOREHEAD.

What Its Size and Shape Are Said to Indicate.

A high forehead to be very good should be well developed about the eyebrows.

Breadth of forehead is always favorable. It is distinctly connected with breadth of character.

A forehead that curves back reveals a poetic temperament, a fondness for the arts and a talent for either music or painting.

Of course a broad forehead may be part of a weak face, and a weak chin and mouth will naturally give a truer impression of character than even a combination of a narrow forehead with an otherwise strong face.

If there is quite a perceptible bulge of the eyebrows, combined with a high forehead, the sign is of a calm, cool, deliberate thinker.

If with these eyebrows is combined a forehead that slopes gradually back, a sensitive, poetic temperament is disclosed. If, again, they are combined with a short, narrow forehead, the subject will be successful in business and in everything connected with worldly matters, but he will be incapable of appreciating to any extent or of creating anything connected with the arts.—New York American.

SAW IT IN A DREAM.

A Lost Check and the Peculiar Way It Was Found.

A wealthy New York lawyer sat up late one night writing letters he had not been able to finish during the day. It was past midnight when he went out to mail them, and when he returned and was undressing he paused in dismay, missing a check for a large sum received during the day and taken home with him. In vain was the house ransacked at that late hour. He went to bed convinced that the lost check must be in the house. An hour later he fell into uneasy slumber and beheld as with his eyes of the flesh the pink check curled about an area railing four or five doors from his own house.

So real was the dream that the troubled man woke up, dressed and, slipping down the stairs into the street, walked along the sidewalk to a spot still seen vividly in his mind, and there, sure enough, standing edge upward and partly curled about the iron, was the missing check. "I think," he reported to the Psychical Research society, "my subconsciousness must have noticed it fall from my pocket as I walked to the mail box and my subliminal self pointed it out to me in sleep."—William G. Fitz-Gerald in New York Tribune.

The Dogs of Constantinople.

There are at least 235,000 dogs in Constantinople, which has a population of 1,150,000. They are the vilest of cowards and are the scavengers of the city. It is said that scores of people are bitten daily by the dogs of Constantinople, but that a case of hydrophobia was never known there. Three centuries ago Nassuf Pasha, grand vizier to Achmet III., transported all the dogs to Asia and would have had them destroyed there, but the sultan, on consulting the mufti, was told that every dog had a soul and consequently forbade such wholesale destruction. After the slaughter of the janizaries Mahmoud intended to get rid of them, for he caused an immense number of sausages (?) to be made and, having poisoned them, gave the dogs a feast. Many thousands were thus killed in one day, but the people murmured so much that he was afraid to begin a second day's work. He therefore ordered them to be expelled to Asia, but the order was very indifferently executed, and in a short time the dogs were as numerous as during the time of the janizaries.

The Dog Morland Painted.

Of the many stories of the seemingly unconscious heroism of Newfoundland dogs none is more interesting than the one concerning the noble dog which Morland afterward painted.

When William Phillips, bathing at Portsmouth, ventured beyond his depth and was drowning, two boatmen, instead of setting out to his rescue, haggled about a reward from the bystanders, who were urging them to go to Phillips' rescue. In the midst of the controversy a Newfoundland dog leaped into the water and brought the exhausted bather to shore. Mr. Phillips bought the dog from its owner, a butcher, and yearly gave a festival in honor of his rescuer.

It was for Mr. Phillips that Morland painted the dog's picture, and Bartolozzi engraved it.

A Dream Warning.

A strange story comes from Calabria. One Braccala, a resident of Pizzo, had a dream in which he saw his son, twenty years of age, being attacked by two men, who were stabbing him with knives. Braccala awoke and, arousing his wife, told her what he had seen. She tried to calm him, but while they were still discussing the matter a noise was heard in front of the house, and, hastening down, Mme. Braccala opened the door just in time to catch her son in her arms as he fell swooning to the ground. He had been attacked and stabbed and died shortly afterward.

Too Easy For Him.

"Sir, I want work."

"Here's a penny. Buy yourself a newspaper."

"But I know nothin' about runnin' a newspaper," protested Tired Tiffins, who really wanted alms.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

To thine own self be true, and it must follow, as the night the day, thou canst not then be false to any man.—Shakespeare.

The Rain Was Hot.

Mrs. Goitt had been waiting for a week or more to give her rear porch a good scrubbing, but she was always afraid of incurring the keen displeasure of the people in the flat below, who, it seemed, were never off their porch and who would get all the drippings of her scrubbing operation.

When it rained, though, Mrs. Goitt saw what she thought was her opportunity. The people down below surely would not be out on the porch during the rainstorm, and all the water that dripped down would be attributed to the rain. She filled a bucket with boiling hot water, threw in a sallow cake of soap and got busy.

But she had reckoned wrong, for the people down below were on their porch enjoying the shower. In a minute Mrs. Goitt heard a woman's voice below saying: "Why, Martha, the rain's coming through from the porch above. The roof must leak."

And then Martha observed, with a gasp: "Yes. And, oh, heavens, had you noticed that the rain is hot? Did you ever hear of such a thing? Aren't terrible things happening? All these awful murders, and now hot rain! But it's the Lord's doings, and we must submit."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Early Lamps and Wicks.

It would be hazardous to conjecture what the first wick consisted of, but when we come to consider the iron lamp, or "cruse," we know that the wick commonly used was the pith of the rush, which was gathered and partially stripped of its outer green covering, cut into proper lengths, dried and tied up into bundles ready for use. The iron lamp was hammered out of one piece of iron in a stone mold. This was usually done by the blacksmith, and the molds are still to be seen in museums, in the hands of private collectors and no doubt at some of the country blacksmiths' shops. They are of one uniform shape, with some slight varieties. The lamp consists of two cups, one suspended above and inside the other. The suspender is so fixed and notched as to enable the upper cup, which holds the oil and wick, to be shifted to keep the oil constantly in contact with the wick. The lower cup catches the drip of the oil, which can be easily replaced in the upper cup by lifting it off until the oil is poured into it. The upper cup has sometimes a movable lid.—Chambers' Journal.

Carnegie's First Investment.

It was due to Thomas A. Scott that Andrew Carnegie made his first investment, ten shares of stock in the Adams Express company, valued at $500. This he did with considerable trepidation. He had labored hard for the money he had saved up while he had worked as a telegrapher. It is part of railroad history how he later fell in with the inventor of the sleeping car, saw the enormous advantages which that manner of travel held out to passengers and promoters and how he interested others in the invention of Mr. Woodruff. This occurred shortly after his return from Washington, when the problems of transportation were still uppermost in his mind. He was now on the road to success and wealth as he then pictured earthly possessions. The Pennsylvania oil fields yielded large returns when Carnegie and others turned their energies in the direction of the newly discovered territory. In one year land purchased for $40,000 increased in value so that it paid a dividend of $1,000,000.—Exchange.

Reading a Horse's Face.

Every horse carries an index to his temper and intelligence in his face. The teachable, tractable animal is broad and flat between the eyes; the bony ridge of his face dishes slightly from the point where the face narrows toward the nostrils. His ears are well set, sensitive and far apart, with a well defined ridge of bone extending across the top of the head between them. Always feel for this ridge in judging a horse. The eye should be large, clear and bright, with a prominent ridge of bone along the inner and upper edge of the socket.—London Answers.

Where Swallows Go.

The swallows all spend the winter in Central America and the south part of Mexico. They appear in the southern states as early as the middle of February, but seldom get as far north as New England until the month of May. The robins winter in the southern states and in northern Mexico. They are to be seen in flocks the winter through in the gulf states.—Exchange.

Plausible.

"The trouble with this tooth," said the dentist, probing it with a long, slender instrument, "is that the nerve is dying."

"It seems to me, doctor," groaned the victim, "you ought to treat the dying with a little more respect."

An Unhappy Answer.

The Curate—Good gracious, Giles! Whatever makes you keep such a spiteful old cat as that? Giles—Well, sir, you see, it's like this—I've felt a bit lonely since my old woman died.—London Opinion.

At the End of the Voyage.

Jonah disembarked.

"The only trip I don't have to tip the steward," he exclaimed.

Therewith he regarded the whale half approvingly.—New York Sun.

Different Points of View.

"It's hard to be poor," sighed the seedy pessimist.

"That's queer," replied the ragged optimist. "I always found it easy enough."

Successful guilt is the bane of society.—Syrus.

"The Greatest Widower"

This is said to be the title of a genuine essay evolved some years ago by a boy in a Welsh board school:

"King Henry VIII. was the greatest widower that ever lived. He was born at Anno Domini in the year 1006. He had 510 wives besides children. The first was beheaded and executed. The second was revoked. She never smiled again. But she said the word 'Calais' would be found on her heart after her death. The greatest man in this reign was Lord Sir Garret Wolsey. He was sir named the Boy Bachelor. He was born at the age of 15, unmarried. Henry VIII. was succeeded on the throne by his great-grandmother, the beautiful and accomplished Mary, queen of Scots, sometimes known as the Lady of the Lake!"

Helping the Burglar Out.

"John," she whispered, "there's a burglar in the drawing room. He has just knocked against the piano and hit several keys at once."

"I'll go down," said he.

"Oh, John, don't do anything rash!"

"Rash! Why, I'm going to help him. You don't suppose he can remove the piano from the house without assistance!"—London Throne.

An Omission.

Magistrate—What is the charge against you this time? Boggs—They cotched me a-stealing oranges, yer worship. Magistrate—Didn't I tell you when you were here before not to steal anything more? Boggs—No, yer worship; you said not to steal any more lemons, but yer didn't say a word about oranges.—London Graphic.

ATTENTION VOTERS

It should be born in mind by every Republican voter that Wednesday, September 2 is the last day for registering for the November election. The registration officer will be at the regular polling place on that day.

FILIPINO INDEPENDENCE.

The inhabitants of the Philippine Islands, whose independence has been demanded by certain Americans who are unacquainted with conditions on the islands, have had their first trial at elections for municipal councilmen of Manila. It has been claimed that the people of the Philippines are capable of self government. It has been charged that the United States has sought to establish imperialism in the islands. Much sympathy has been expended on the little brown men who were rescued from brutul Spanish rule by the American government, through Admiral Dewey. That this sympathy has been wasted is proven by the result of the election in Manila.

Two of the men elected to the municipal council of Manila have records which would have fit pirates and assassins of the sixteenth century. One of these men—Simon Villa—was known as "Torturer" Villa during the Spanish occupancy of the islands, his crime being of a most atrocious character. The other councilman is what is called an obstructionist in the islands.

The election of these rapid rebels to responsible positions shows the calibre of the Filipinos and demonstrates beyond dispute the fact that the islanders are totally unfit to govern themselves and that they will not be ready for independence for many years to come.

MR. KERN says Indiana will surely go Democratic this year. Was it an accident that Indiana voted twice against Bryan and twice against Kern when he ran for governor?

—"SHALL the People Rule?" asks Bryan, in big capital letters. Well they usually take a notion to do so. He ought to know that, for they have twice refused to permit him to rule.

RAPID ROAD CONSTRUCTION.

More rapid strides in the reconstruction of the roads of Pennsylvania have been made this year than in any year since the organization of the State Highway Department by Highway Commissioner Hunter, in 1903. Although actual work on construction of roads did not begin until 1904 there had been constructed to the first of August over 348 miles of improved road and there were under contract or in course of construction no less than 325 miles. In addition surveys had been made for many additional miles of highway.

Every county in the State has made application for reconstruction of roads, some of them abolishing turnpikes in order to secure State aid, and while new roads have not been built in every county, the only reason has been because the counties or townships refused to follow up the projects after surveys and estimates had been made at the expense of the State.

The State Highway Department grew out of a force offour men, named in 1903, and is now constructing roads at a rate which if continued, will put Pennsylvania ahead of all other States in a few years. The yearly construction now is considerably ahead of New York, which has been building roads for twelve years, and is considerably in advance of Massachusetts and Western States, which are paying close attention to roads.

Highway Commissioner Hunter, who organized the department is confident that within a few years this State will have roads connecting every important town and is anxious to construct a main highway and to leave great wide roadways crossing the State to reach the agricultural regions. He is heartily supporting Governor Stuart in his searches into the road question in this State.

MAYBE after a while we will be able to change the old saying. The Dutch have taken Holland, to "The Dutch have taken Venezuela."

ADLAI E. STEVENSON was elected Vice President once with Cleveland. Now the Democrats are going to try him on the people of Illinois for Governor—if they can only get him enough votes.

THE monument erected to the memory of James Buchanan, president of the United States, at his birthplace, Stony Batter near, Mercerburg, Franklin county, is now completed and will soon be dedicated.

MR. HEARST'S frank declaration that the independence party may require years to develop great importance puts Mr. Hisgen more or less in the attitude of what is known to negro minstrelsy as a "chair-warmer."

THOSE Birmingham, Ala., strikers who fired on a train in which strike breakers were riding, killing several and wounding a number of others, would probably resent the insinuation that they are on a bar with ordinary assassins.

THE U. S. Steel Corporation, to protect its employes from being imposed upon by political bosses, has adopted a set of resolutions prohibiting any solicitation of subscriptions from the workmen for political or to interfere with their political opinions. The company will not allow superintendents to solicit subscriptions for churches or other societies and the superintendents are for bidden from taking an active part in any concern in which they have money invested.

THE move of President McCree, of the Pennsylvania Railrod to lay off men, no matter how many it may be, has provoked a storm from the directorate of the road, which claims to be able to prove that the condition of the Pennsylvania railroad is such as to demand the employment of more men instead of reducing forces. It is alleged by friends of the directorate that the Pennsylvania is now doing as much business as it did in 1906 and almost as much as in 1907. Figures at hand show that for the first twenty days in July this year there were an average of seven more trains handled daily, on the outskirts of Pittsburg.

THE most salient thing of the campaign thus far is the amazing lack of interest in Bryan and Bryanism. No one seems to be excited one way or either. Whereas twelve and eight years ago men were shaking fists in one another's faces and the country was turned into a vast debating school, now there is listless indifference. Bryan is not able to stir up his friends, nor is he able to stir up his enemies. His candidacy does not show greater signs of life than did the candidacy of Judge Parker at this time four years ago. What then, has become of Bryan's popularity of which there was so much talk before his nomination? The man himself is as mild as milk and his supporters seem wrapped in stupor.

BRYAN is an editor. Norman E. Mack, the chairman of the Democratic National committee is an editor; so is Urey Woodson, the secretary. We are of the opinion that these pencil pushers are going to make a terrible mess of it for the Democratic party.

—Remember that Wednesday, September 2 is the last day for registering for the November election.

—The fact that you were registered at previous elections is no guarantee that you are registered now. Every Republican voter should see to it next Wednesday that he is on the voting list.

Poverty and Luxury.

Poverty and luxury—these are the diseases of our industrial regime, to the cure of which the Socialists offer their ineffectual remedy—ineffectual since the population of the United States is made up of 90,000,000 individuals, some of whom will be forever on the verge of bankruptcy, however great their income, and some frugal and always carrying their account on the right side of the balance sheet, however small their annual allotment of wealth.

Poverty and luxury are twin diseases sapping the life of society, the one destroying ambition by withholding sufficient nourishment to the body, the other rendering men worthless to society by a superabundance of the good things of life. Poverty is a disease not indigenous to our American soil. It is a plague brought in by immigrant ships from wornout Europe, and its patients are cured here by the thousands. So long as there remains an uncultivated acre of land anywhere in the Union there is no real cause for poverty nor any excuse for luxury while a foot of land is undeveloped.—J. T. Lincoln in Atlantic.

Quiet.

Patience—Did you have a quiet time up in the country?

Patrice—Oh, yes. You see, auntie's parrot had just died and the phonograph was out of order!

Forcing a Success.

"What is the name of your new novel?"

"'The Dungeon.' Good gloomy title eh?"

"Yes. That name alone ought to get the book among the six best sellers."—Washington Herald.

Nothing Liberal About It.

Wilkins—I understand you are giving your son a liberal education? Hobbs—Liberal! Not a bit of it! They don't give anything away at the college where he is. I have to pay for every plaguy thing he gets.—Boston Transcript.

Thoughtfulness.

Mr. Saphedde—I like to be different from other people.

Miss Caustique—That is very considerate of you. I dare say the other people appreciate your thoughtfulness.—Philadelphia Record.

Sarcastic.

He—Look at this infernal bill. You know I can't afford it. Now, I'm going to give you a piece of my mind. She—Are you quite sure you can afford that, papa, dear?—London Opinion.

The Four D's.

Charles Spurgeon once said that there were three great enemies to man—"dirt, debt, and the devil." He might have added one more d and included dyspepsia. The evil results of this disease could hardly be exaggerated. It's effects are felt in mind and body, and are so far reaching as the effects of the curse that was laid on the Jackdaw of Rheims which was cursed in "eating and drinking and sleeping in standing and sitting and lying." The good effects of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery are most marked in aggravated and chronic cases of dyspepsia. It enables the stomach glands to secrete the necessary quantity of digestive fluids, and this at once removes that craving or gnawing sensation so common to certain forms of indigestion. It tones and regulates the stomach, invigorates the torpid liver and gives the blood-making glands keen assimilative power. "Golden Medical Discover" cures ninety-eight per cent of those who use it.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are superior to all other laxative medicines when the bowels are obstructed.

The Daring Pike.

The boldness of a pike is very extraordinary. I have seen one follow a bait within a foot of the spot where I have been standing, and the head keeper of Richmond park assured me that he was once washing his hands at the side of a boat in the great pond in that park when a pike made a dart at it and he had but just time to withdraw it.

A gentleman now residing in Woodbridge, in Surrey, informed me that walking one day by the side of the river Wey near that town, he saw a large pike in a shallow creek. He immediately pulled off his coat, tucked up his shirt sleeves and went into the water to intercept the return of the fish to the river and to endeavor to throw it upon the bank by getting his hands under it.

During this attempt the pike, finding he could not make his escape, seized one of the arms of the gentleman and lacerated it so much that the wound took a month to heal.—London Fishing Gazette.

He Caught O'Connell.

Daniel O'Connell, the famous orator, when taking a ride in the neighborhood of his house had occasion to speak an urchin to open a gate for him. The little fellow complied with much alacrity and looked up with such an honest pleasure at rendering the slight service that O'Connell said:

"When I see you again I'll give you sixpence."

Riding briskly on, he soon forgot the incident and fell to thinking of graver matters, when, after traveling some miles, he found his path obstructed by some fallen timber, which a boy was stoutly endeavoring to remove. On looking more closely he discovered it to be the same boy he had met in the morning.

"What!" cried he. "How do you come to be here now?"

"You said, sir, the next time you seen me you'd give me sixpence," said the little fellow, wiping the perspiration from his brow.

The Very Thing

The old gentleman poked his nose in and out of the mysterious corners of the furniture shop.

"By the way," he said suddenly, "my daughter has just started to—er—have a young man come calling, and I suppose I really ought to get a pretty sofa for them to make love on."

"Most certainly, sir!" responded the suave shopman. "And here, I think I have the very thing you need. It is called 'Cupid's Retreat' and is specially suited for courting couples."

"Specially suited?" repeated the old gentleman. "Well, what is its particular good point?"

"Why, sir, the particular good point is this—the pretty covering you see before you is guaranteed to wear out in just one year."

"And what on earth's the use of that?" asked the old gent.

"Why, sir, because it leaves displayed a card upon which are written the words, 'Time to get married!' Neat, isn't it?"—London Answers.

Queer Virginia Oysters.

But, sure enough, did you know there were some oysters and Virginia oysters at that, which cannot live always under sheets of water? The seaside oyster does not grow in deep water, say over ten feet, and the most and best of them grow in water so shoal that it is dry ebb half the time. These latter are the most prolific seed bearers we have, but they will die if planted in deep water or in the Chesapeake bay. The inside or bay oyster should never ebb bare to thrive best. Singular, isn't it, that the Virginia oysters, one and the same bivalves, can lead a double life, but only one phase of it at a time! The seaside fellow must be out of water a good portion of his time to thrive, while the bay and river fellow will die in summer and freeze in winter if exposed to the air.—Virginia Citizen.

The Roast.

"To judge woman by her looks is to court error," said a well known woman. "I know a man who while carving at a dinner wished to say something that would please the pale, deep eyed, spirituelle girl at his side.

"'How do you like Maeterlinck?' he at last inquired.

"'Well done,' she answered, not once lifting her eyes from the great roast he was working on."—Washington Post.

A Difficult Case.

A physician received late one evening a note from three of his fellow practitioners:

"Please step over to the club and join us at a rubber of whist."

"Emilie, dear," he said to his wife, "here I am called away again. It appears to be a difficult case—there are three other doctors on the spot already."

New.

"I want you," said the stage manager, "to play the part of a banker, and I want you to try to play it with a touch of originality."

"All right," responded Yorick Hamm. "I'll leave off the mutton chop whiskers."—Kansas City Journal.

The Difficulty.

"Could you bring yourself to live in a flat on £4 a week?"

"I could, Harold," answered the pampered yet unspoiled darling. "But I do not know just how it would suit my French maid."—London Tatler.

The Real Question.

"Where does he get his money?"

"I don't know where he gets his, and I don't care. What I am interested in is knowing just how he gets mine."—Nashville American.

A Famous Poison Mystery.

England had a famous poison mystery in the last century. Two members of a great club in Manchester, both men of position and keen politicians, each received, apparently as a New Year's gift, small boxes containing a few cigars of the very highest quality apparently. Both were taken fearfully ill after smoking, and one of them subsequently died. The cigars were found to be loaded with poison, and it was said that the man who recovered only did so because he used a cigar holder. The facts were at first hushed up, because, as was said, the suspected sender, whose motive was revenge on account of a lady, was a man of wealth and power. But this subject was cleared, and the mystery was deepened by the following circumstances: A rich Manchester merchant, traveling one day in a railway car about the time of the incident related, got into conversation with a most agreeably and highly cultivated stranger, who finally offered his cigar case. The Manchester man was found at Leeds almost unconscious and the only occupant of the carriage. He grasped in one of his convulsed hands the cigar he had been smoking, and after analysis showed it to be identical with the others. He recovered, but the stranger was never discovered.

Easy Way to Be Generous.

In a church of a New England village was an old man who had all the Christian graces save one, and that was the grace of liberality. He would do anything in the world for the cause of religion but give up his money. At the close of the financial year 1869 the church found itself $400 in debt. A church meeting was called, and it was voted to circulate a subscription paper on the spot and endeavor to thus raise the sum needed. This was done, and the old gentleman did not put his name on the paper. The result was rather disheartening, $200 only having been pledged. Silence reigned for a moment, when one of the most generous men in the church moved that "we double our subscriptions." Instantly the old gentleman was on his feet and with extraordinary fervor cried, "I second the motion."

He evidently felt that he was thus doing his part in hastening a most desirable result.

Would Follow His Example.

After the battle of Prestonpans a witty Scottish farmer amused himself by writing a ballad upon it, which so stung one of the English officers, who had behaved very basely on the occasion, that he sent the poet a challenge to meet him at H. for mortal combat.

The second found the farmer busy with his hayfork and at once delivered the challenge of the redoubtable hero. The good natured farmer, turning toward him with the agricultural implement, coolly said:

"Gang awa' back to Mester Smith and tell him I hae nae time to come to H. to gie him satisfaction, but that if he likes to come here I'll tak' a look at him, and if I think I can fecht (fight) him I'll fecht him, and if I think I canna fecht him I'll just do as he did—I'll run away."

His Inspiration.

The negro brass band connected with the traveling troupe was blatting a tune in its characteristic slap bang style in front of the theater when a dusky cornet player who had been sulking all day suddenly quit blowing and did not resume.

"Say, Mose," demanded the leader in the ensuing pause, "ain't yo' workin' any mo'?"

"Ah is w'en Ah gits de inspiration," retorted the sulky musician, throwing the whites of his eyes across at the leader.

"W'en am dat?"

"W'en Ah gits mah las' week's pay."—Kansas City Independent.

Conscientious About It.

"Mr. Glizzard," asked the caller, "are you carrying all the life insurance you can afford?"

"No," answered the man at the desk. "I can afford more, and I had expected to take out more, but from a note I got from my employer this morning I have begun to suspect that I'm carrying a good deal more than I am worth."—Chicago Tribune.

ALL RUN DOWN.

Miss Della Stroebe, who had Completely Lost Her Health, Found Relief from Pe-ru-na at Once.

Read What She Says:

MISS DELLA STROEBE, 710 Richmond St., Appleton, Wis., writes: "For several years I was in a run-down condition, and I could find no relief from doctors and medicines. I could not enjoy my meals, and could not sleep at night. I had heavy, dark circles about the eyes.

"My friends were much alarmed. I was advised to give Peruna a trial, and to my joy I began to improve with the first bottle. After taking six bottles I felt completely cured. I cannot say too much for Peruna as a medicine for women in a run-down condition."

Pe-ru-na Did Wonders.

Mrs. Judge J. F. Boyer, 1421 Sherman Ave., Evanston, Ill., says that she became run down, could neither eat nor sleep well, and lost flesh and spirit. Peruna did wonders for her, and she thanks Peruna for new life and strength.

Tenement House Fire

A few minutes past eleven o'clock this forenoon fire broke out in the triple tenement house in the rear of Parrish's drug store and almost as soon as discovered it had spread the entire length of the dry shingle roof. An alarm was sent in and both fire companies were quickly on the scene and soon had the flames extinguished.

The fire originated from a defective flue in one of the apartments and was not discovered until it had broken out and spread over the roof. The dwelling is owned by Dr. Hayes and is occupied by Alfred Derr, Isaac Wyland and Mrs. Farley. Several of the families had some of their goods stored in the attic and these were burned. The fire, however, was confined to the attic portion of the house, but the other rooms were badly damaged by water. About one-third of the roof was burned off and the loss on the building will amount to about $300. The loss on the building is fully covered by insurance. We could not learn what insurance was carried by the tenants.

A. A. Pletcher was taken suddenly ill last week with acute indigestion, but is slowly improving and on Tuesday was able to be up.

The Howard Millionaire base ball team was banquetted at the Hotel Howard last Thursday night. The banquet was furnished by some person or persons unknown to the boys, but that made no difference to them for when they surrounded the feetal board they ate as they never ate before. The banquet consisted of chicken and waffles with many other side dishes and was thoroughly enjoyed by the members of the team.

There were visions of a champaign banquet last Saturday when the Howard team defeated Snow Sho-. At least that promise was made by someone but the time for serving it has not been announced. Not since the opening of the season has so much interest been centered on a game as this one, on account of Howard and Snow Shoe being so evenly matched during the season and the rivalry that sprang up between the teams, The attendance was about 400 and the fans came from all directions and from all places along the Bald Eagle Valley Bellefonte was well represented and a home business was practically suspended Farmers laid down their work for the afternoon and workmen quit to see the game. The Howard fans were more than pleased with the result but the one-sidedness of the score robbed the game of interest for the visitors whose hearts were not with Howard. President Redding's ruling in forcing Vorhis out of the gam. was not pleasing to the local fans, but they had Twitmire to fall back upon and no doubt the Barons were sorry that they spoke. Redding's protest against one of Snow Shoe players looked sort of mushy to the local fans, and there was some vigerous kicking by the supporters of the team at the time but the result of the game allayed all the ire aroused by the seeming ill treatment of the Howard team.

It is not infrequent that some one comes in to eat up the town and Constable Leathers' prompt action on Saturday soon settled all disputes along the line of who was best man. One who had disturbed the peace was placed in the lock-up and later in the evening was fined $3.00 and cost by the burgess.

The two young men that have an interest in the gas region from Snow Shoe to Milesburg can fully explain about the sun rising in the eastern horizon. They say the main reason why they never know when to go home is that they have to climb to the top of a very high range of mountains to see the sun come up and when on the brow everything becomes dark as though an eclipse was on the sun. The reason for this is their very large feet which causes a shawdow to fall on the planet and become dark. So now friends don't think Scott and Pinney are like the wise men of old? Good-bye Peggy.

Mrs. Adam Epp and children of Reading are guests at the Sennet residence.

The program for the third Sunday school convention of the U. B. church to be held at Fairview church Thursday Sept. 3, 1908 was issued during the week and will be published in next weeks items.

If You Read This

It will be to learn that the leading medical writers and teachers of all the several schools of practice recommend, in the strongest terms possible, each and every ingredient entering into the composition of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery for the cure of weak stomach, dyspepsia, catarrh of stomach, "liver complaint," torpid liver, or biliousness, chronic bowel affections, and all catarrhal diseases of whatever region, name or nature. It is also a specific remedy for all such chronic or long standing cases of catarrhal affections and their resultants, as bronchial, throat and lung disease (except consumption) accompanied with severe coughs. It is not so good for acute colds and coughs, but for lingering, or chronic cases it is especially efficacious in producing perfect cures. It contains Black Cherry bark, Golden Seal root, Bloodroot, Stone root, Mandrake root and Queen's root—all of which are highly praised as remedies for all the above mentioned affections by such eminent medical writers and teachers as Prof. Bartholow, of Jefferson Med. College; Prof. Hare, of the Univ. of Pa.; Prof. Finley Ellingwood, M. D., of Bennett Med. College, Chicago; Prof. John King, M. D., of Cincinnati; Prof. John M. Scudder, M. D., of Cincinnati; Prof. Edwin M. Hale, M. D., of Hahnemann Med. College, Chicago, and scores of others equally eminent in their several schools of practice.

The "Golden Medical Discovery" is the only medicine put up for sale through druggists for like purposes, that has any such professional endorsement—worth more than any number of ordinary testimonials. Open publicity of its formula is the best possible guaranty of its merits. A glance at this published formula will show that "Golden Medical Discovery" contains no poisonous, harmful or habit-forming drugs and no alcohol—chemically pure, triple-refined glycerine being used instead. Glycerine is entirely unobjectionable and besides is a most useful agent in the cure of all stomach as well as bronchial, throat and lung affections. There is the highest medical authority for its use in all such cases. The "Discovery" is a concentrated glyceric extract of native, medicinal roots and is safe and reliable.

A booklet of extracts from eminent, medical authorities, endorsing its ingredients mailed free on request. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Lost the Pay Car

The men in charge of the Pennsylvania railroad pay car had an unusual experience Wednesday while enroute from Sunbury to Bellefonte on the Lewisburg and Tyrone division. They left Sunbury at 5 o'clock Wednesday morning for Bellefonte, from which point they began paying on the return trip to Lewisburg and then on the Northern Central division.

While running through a desolate country between Lewisburg and Bellefonte, during the morning, the rear car in which all of the money car is on the trip was deposited, broke loose and was not missed until the engine and other car had proceeded several miles from the point where the cars separated.

The engineer was given a signal to stop, and he backed hurridly until the the missing car was found. It was at first feared that robbers had had a hand in the peculiar affair, but the money was all safe. Several detectives were riding on the rear car and protected the cash.

Chairman Frank H. Hitchcock and Republican Headquarters in New York.

The Republicans have chosen the tallest office building in the world, the Metropolitan Life building on Madison square, New York, for the location of the headquarters where Frank H. Hitchcock, as chairman of the Republican national committee, will prosecute the canvass for the election of Judge William H. Taft to the presidency. Chairman Hitchcock and his staff will hold forth on the tenth floor of the building, which is the first floor of the tower. The latter has forty-eight stories on a liberal count and soars to about 700 feet above the street level. The framework of the tower is now complete, but the stonework which will cover the steel skeleton is not in place yet on the upper part of the structure. However, the lower floors of the new portion of the building have been rented without waiting for the completion of the tower.

Until the Equitable Life Assurance company completes its proposed new sixty-two story skyscraper on lower Broadway the Metropolitan Life building on Madison square will enjoy the honor of being the highest office building not only in New York, but anywhere in the world. Mr. Hitchcock and his assistants will be able to get a pretty good view of the situation by taking the elevator to the upper stories of the tower. They can see how the land lies around New York at any time, and if their political vision is proportionate in scope to the view they can obtain from such a lofty height they will be at quite an advantage in laying their campaign plans.

A Woman's Health

Is a heritage too sacred to be experimented with. For her peculiar and delicate ailments only medicines of known composition and which contain no alcohol, narcotics, or other harmful or habit-forming drugs should be employed. The one medicine which fulfills all these requirements is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription—a remedy with a record of over forty years of cures to recommend it; a remedy, the makers of which print its formula on every bottle-wrapper and attest its completeness and correctness under oath; a remedy devised and adapted to woman's delicate constitution by an educated physician—an experienced specialist in woman's diseases; a remedy, every ingredient of which has received the written endorsement of the most eminent medical writers of all the several schools of practice for the cure of woman's peculiar diseases; a remedy which has more bona-fide cures to its credit than any other sold by druggists for woman's special requirements. It is not given away in the form of "trial bottles" to be experimented with, but is sold at a fair price by all dealers in medicines.

Delicate, weak, nervous women should especially shun the use of alcoholic medicines which, from their stimulating and exhilerating effects may seem, for a time, to do good, but which from the inevitable effects of the alcohol in shrinking up the red corpuscles of the blood are sure to do great and lasting harm in the long run. Besides they beget a craving for stimulants which is most deplorable.

Only invigorating and nerve strengthening effects can follow the use of this famous medicine for women. It can not possibly do harm in any state or condition of the system. It has been carefully adapted to woman's needs by an experienced physician—a specialist in their diseases. It makes weak women strong and sick women well.

If a woman has bearing down, or dragging pains, low down in the abdomen, or pelvis, backache, frequent headaches, dizzy or fainting spells, is nervous and easily startled, has gnawing feeling in stomach, sees imaginary floating specks, or spots before her eyes, has melancholia, or "blues," or a weakening disagreeable drain from pelvic organs, she can make no mistake by resorting to the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It will invigorate and tone up the whole system and especially the pelvic organs.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a scientific medicine, carefully devised by an experienced and skillful physician, and adapted to woman's delicate system. It is made of native American medicinal roots and is perfectly harmless in its effects in any condition of the female system.

As a powerful invigorating tonic, "Favorite Prescription" imparts strength to the whole system and to the organs distinctly feminine in particular. For over-worked, "worn-out," run-down," debilitated teachers, milliners, dressmakers, seamstresses, "shop-girls," house-keepers, nursing mothers, and feeble women generally, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the greatest earthly boon, being unequaled as an appetizing cordial and restorative tonic.

As a soothing and strengthening nervine "Favorite Prescription" is unequaled and is invaluable in allaying and subduing nervous excitability, irritability, nervous exhaustion, nervous prostration, neuralgia, hysteria, spasms, St. Vitus's dance, and other distressing, nervous symptoms commonly attendant upon functional and organic disease of the uterus. It induces refreshing sleep and relieves mental anxiety and despondency.

No woman suffering from any of the above symptoms can afford to accept any secret nostrum or medicine of unknown composition, as a substitute for a medicine like Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, which is OF KNOWN COMPOSITION and has a record of over forty years of cures and sells more largely to-day than ever before. Its makers withhold no secrets from their patients, believing open publicity to be the very best guaranty of merit.

Dr. Pierce invites all suffering women to consult him by letter free of charge. All letters of consultation are held as strictly private and sacredly confidential and all answers are returned in plain, sealed envelopes. Address: Dr. R. V. Pierce, Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation. Constipation is the cause of many diseases. Cure the cause and you cure the disease. One "Pellet" is a gentle laxative, and two a mild cathartic. Druggists sell them, and nothing is "just as good." They are the original Little Liver Pills first put up by old Dr. Pierce over 40 years ago. Much imitated, but never equaled. They are tiny sugar-coated granules—easy to take as candy.

Dr. Pierce's great thousand-page illustrated Common Sense Medical Adviser will be sent free, paper-bound, for 21 one-cent stamps, or cloth-bound for 31 stamps. Address Dr. Pierce as above.

The New President of the General Federation of Woman's Clubs.

Mrs. Philip N. Moore, the new president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, was chosen to that office as successor to Mrs. Sarah Platt Decker at the recent ninth biennial session of the federation in Boston.

Mrs. Moore defeated Mrs. May Allen Ward of Boston, the candidate named by the nominating committee, receiving 516 of the 906 votes cast. She was vice president of the General Federation and is prominent in society and musical circles in St. Louis. Mrs. Moore was one of the most active members of the board of lady managers of the Louisiana Purchase exposition of 1904.

MRS. PHILIP N. MOORE.

Edgar Jepson.

Edgar Jepson, author of "Tangled Wedlock," is a writer of the day whose youthful experiences have undoubtedly helped him in the art of the romancer. In a little tin pot of a steam yacht he and two of his college friends, in order to "see the world," coasted along the shores of the Mediterranean and in six months had as many narrow escapes from drowning as the average seaman enjoys in thirty years. Then came a year as schoolmaster in a primitive Welsh village and after that three years in the West Indies, from all of which, quite naturally, was accumulated enough experience for the demands of romance.

The Dianemologo.

This singular name is given by the inventor, Eduardo Torres y Quevedo, a Spaniard, to an apparatus intended to take the place of stenography in reporting speeches. The apparatus, which consists simply of a series of little bells, requires the co-operation of eight or ten writers. Each writer takes a single phrase from the speaker's mouth. At the tinkle of a bell on his left he begins to write what he hears. The bell on his right arrests him and sets his neighbor at work. By the time the circuit is made the first writer is ready for another phrase. Afterward the phrases, which are numbered in their order of taking, are reunited to form the entire report. Tried recently at the Athenee, in Madrid, the dianemologo gave satisfactory results.

A Smuggler's Trick.

Josef Gunther, a Bohemian smuggler, has been arrested on the Austro-German frontier in the uniform of an Austrian frontier guard. He confessed that after suffering much at the hands of the guards in his own smuggling career he had adopted this uniform to harass other smugglers. He had caught twenty-six during six months and had confiscated their goods as the price of giving them their liberty. In this way he had made a handsome income.

A Race With the Sun.

An English magazine says that if an aerial machine were capable of traveling at any rate up to 1,000 miles an hour a traveler in it, starting westward from London at a speed of 600 miles an hour, would arrest the progress of time. If he started at 10 a. m., it would always be to him 10 a. m. Should he find his unending day monotonous he could reverse his direction and get a quick succession of short days and nights of some six hours' duration, but he could regulate the length by the speed of his machine. Suppose he traveled from London one night at 10 o'clock westward at a speed of 1,000 miles per hour. He would soon experience the sensation of seeing the sun rising in the west where it had set a short time before.

The Cause of Many Sudden Deaths.

There is a disease prevailing in this country most dangerous because so deceptive. Many sudden deaths are caused by it—heart disease, pneumonia, heart failure or apoplexy are often the result of kidney disease. If kidney trouble is allowed to advance the kidney-poisoned blood will attack the vital organs, causing catarrh of the bladder, or the kidneys themselves break down and waste away cell by cell.

Bladder troubles almost always result from a derangement of the kidneys and a cure is obtained quickest by a proper treatment of the kidneys. If you are feeling badly you can make no mistake by taking Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy.

It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often through the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases.

Swamp-Root is pleasant to take and is sold by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a sample bottle of this wonderful new discovery and a book that tells all about it, both sent free by mail. Address, Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

Shipwrecks and Courts Martial.

The custom of holding courts martial in the British navy after every case of shipwreck has a curious origin. In 1741 the Wager, one of Commodore Anson's vessels, was wrecked off the coast of Chile, most of the crew being saved. The men and some of the junior officers held that they were no longer amenable to discipline because their pay ceased with the wreck, but the captain, whose name was Davy Cheap, differed, treated them as mutineers and shot one of his midshipmen. He was then deposed, and most of the crew made off in three of the boats. Later when it was proposed to proceed against the so called mutineers the law officers of the crown decided that the men had been correct in their view. This discovery led to the framing of section 91 of the articles of war, which provides that in the case of shipwreck, destruction or capture by the enemy a ship is held to remain in commission pending inquiry by a court martial.

A Psychic Phenomenon.

An extraordinary incident is connected with Professor von Herkomer's famous painting, "The Last Muster," which was the picture of its year at the academy.

One morning soon after the exhibition was opened the artist was astonished to receive a letter from a lady, a perfect stranger, who said she was not aware until she saw "The Last Muster" at the academy on the previous day that her mother, then dead, had ever sat to the professor for her portrait.

Now, the figure in the picture was painted solely from imagination, and the artist hastened to explain this fact to his correspondent. She thereupon asked for an appointment and took an old painting of her mother, asserting that it was a faithful representation of that lady.

The academician was astonished to perceive that he had really portrayed on his own canvas a facsimile of the figure in this other painting, although it was that of a woman whom he had never seen in his life.—London M. A. P.

Noise.

Noise, at first cultivated in this land by the Indians, has reached its climax in the college yell. It is used at political conventions, at christenings and at women's clubs. No monument was necessary for the man who first invented noise. His work lives after him.

Noise is used by cities, which have the first call for it. They split it up into as many sounds as possible and divide it among all.

Noise varies in its volume and intensity, from embryonic and immature sawmill to a baby crying in the night.—Life.

Its Origin.

"So you don't believe in the story of Jonah and the whale?"

"No," answered Mr. Meekton thoughtfully.

"How do you suppose it originated?"

"Well, I suppose Jonah had been away from home for some time and had to tell his wife something."—Kansas City Newsboda.

Indigestion

Stomach trouble is but a symptom of, and not in itself a true disease. We think of Dyspepsia, Heartburn, and indigestion as real diseases, yet they are symptoms only of a certain specific Nerve sickness—nothing else.

It was this fact that first correctly led Dr. Shoop to the creation of that now very popular Stomach Remedy—Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Going direct to the stomach nerves, alone brought that success and favor to Dr. Shoop and his Restorative. Without that original and highly vital principle, no such lasting accomplishments were ever to be had.

For stomach distress, bloating, biliousness, bad breath and sallow complexion, try Dr. Shoop's Restorative—Tablets or Liquid—and see for yourself what it can and will do. We sell and cheerfully recommend

WEDDING WILL END FEUD

Children of Feudists near Butler Elude Parents and Marry.

ELOPE TO MARYLAND.

When They Retured the Father of the Groom Added his Bleesing and accepted his New Daughter.

TRIED TO PREVENT THEIR MEETING.

Butler, Pa., August 13—Despite a feud that has been in existence for several years between the families of John Davidson and Justice of the Peace Dunbar, of Watters station, near here, a daughter of Davidson and a son of Dunbar eloped yesterday to Cumberland, Md., where they were married.

They returned late last night and are making their home at the residence of Squire Dunbar, pending the dicision reached by the girl's father.

Miss Vera Davidson was 17 years of age and her sweetheart, Ralph Dunbar was 20 years of age. Each had known of the friction between the heads of the respective households, but Vera decided that this did not affect the love match.

Yesterday morning when her fa her came down for breakfast he found his daughter had written a note for him. The father did not like the note, as he suspected something was going to happen.

He was aware that the Dunbar youth and his girl had an attraction for each other, but on account of the old feud, he has tried to break it off by forbidding the youth to enter on his premises. Since issuing these directions he has not seen the young couple in the company of each other and had reached the conclusion that drastic treatment had proved effective.

On reading the note he almost decided to forbid the journey to Pittsburg, when he recollected that his little housekeeper had been unusually faithful during the past year and had earned a holiday.

After the father had gone the girl dressed in her best and went to the station, where she was met by young Dunbar. They boarded the train that left for Pittsburg, when they continued the journey to Cumberland, where they were married.

The young folks boarded the train for home, which they reached late last night. When the 'squire was apprised of what had happened he gave his blessing to his son and his new daughter. The girl's father was also informed, but he has not yet made it known whether or not the long fend has at length been kiiled.

Lucy Hanford, a fifteen year old girl was also missing, and as it was known that Sportman and relatives in Elkhart, Ind., word was sent there to be on the lookout for the couple and arrest them. The authorities were correct in their suspicion and the young couple was arrested and on Tuesday Sportman was brought back to Williamsport, where he was given a hearing and plead guilty to stealing $80 from the farmer. In default of $400 bail he was committed to jail to await the action of court.

WON ON A BLUFF.

The Way One Prosperous Merchant Got His Start In Business.

There is a prosperous merchant in Chicago today who owes his success to his donation of a $5,000 organ to a church at a time when he didn't have money enough to buy a hand organ. This donation was a case of bluff pure and simple, but the bluff worked and resulted in the subsequent wealth of the lucky bluffer.

John Smith was seeking capital to start in business for himself, but as he had no security worth speaking of he could not borrow the money he needed.

When he had tried every person he could think of who would be likely to have the necessary cash and the disposition to lend it, and had been turned down, he conceived the idea of presenting his church with an organ.

Young Napoleon John Smith therefore ordered his organ and allowed the future to look out for itself. The manufacturers of the organ never thought of questioning the financial standing of the philanthropist who was handing out $5,000 organs and agreed to have the instrument set up in the church on time.

Of course J. Smith was not a bud that was born to blush unseen, nor did he hide his beneficence under a bushel. He managed to bring in at least the flute stops no matter what the subject of conversation. Not only did the young Napoleon advertise himself by means of the church organ, but the pleased minister and the equally pleased congregation spread the news of his gift.

During this time John did not allow any alfalfa to grow under his feet. On the pretense of consulting some wealthy member of the congregation about some minor details of the organ he would drop into an office and before he left casually would mention the subject of the company that he was forming. Most of the men that he thus saw thought that it would be a good thing to be associated with a man who was making so much money that he was able to hand out $5,000 without missing it, so that all were anxious to take stock in J. Smith's company.

Long before the time came for the first payment on the organ Smith had gathered enough money to start his business and was doing so well he had no difficulty in borrowing the amount needed to make the payment. From that time he has made money so fast that now he could give away several $5,000 organs and pay for them as well.—Chicago Tribune.

MEXICAN POLITENESS.

In the State of Michoacan Chivalry Is Compulsory.

"If any man opines that the days of chivalry and the true knight errant spirit have gone forever, let him start forthwith on a far southward journey, not halt his steps until he brings up in the town of Morelia, which is the capital of the Mexican state of Michoacan," remarked a traveling man.

"Having arrived in Morelia, he will at once see that the chivalrous spirit still survives. I was down there not long ago, and the gallantry of the men and their extreme readiness to extend courtesies to the fair sex pleased and surprised me. When I noticed the alacrity with which the native males jumped up on the crowded street car to offer their seats to the first senorita that entered, I thought to myself how much more gentlemanly are these Mexicans than many of my own countrymen. They do not wait to see if some other man is going to get up, but each tries to beat the other in courteously proffering his seat to the lady.

"I spoke about the matter to the proprietor of the hotel and immediately he began to laugh.

"'You must understand, senor,' said the innkeeper, 'that the governor of our state issued a decree that if any man keep his seat in a street car, thereby compelling a women to stand, he is liable to arrest and a fine. The police have been instructed to execute this order severely, and I think this has much to do with the prompt politeness of which you speak, since none of our population wishes to become involved with the police and to be publicly branded as lacking in gentility.'"—Baltimore American.

She Had Red Burns.

The philanthropic lady was visiting a Glasgow slum and had just been ushered into a house where the good wife was engaged washing. Her endeavor was to elevate the minds of the poor, and she asked, "Have you read Burns?"

In answer the good wife bared her brawny arm and displayed a large red mark, saying: "There's wan I got this morn wi' the steam o' the pot blin' over. But, efter a', a burn's aye red!"

Must Have Had Experience.

"Never mind, dear," he said reassuringly as she raised her sweet face from his shoulder and they both saw the white blur on his coat; "it will all brush off."

"Oh, Charlie," she burst out, sobbing, hiding her face again upon his whitey shoulder, "how do you know?"—Somerville Journal.

Penance For Discourtesy.

Nicholas I., czar of Russia, was the type of an absolute aristocrat. The succession of terrible wars which clouded his reign did not tend to soften his disposition or to render him less imperious. But, rough and harsh as he was, Nicholas had a measure of chivalry in his disposition. He would not tolerate under any circumstances an insult offered to a woman. As the czar was driving through the streets of St. Petersburg he caught sight of an officer of his household in the act of upsetting an old beggar woman whose hands were raised in a prayer for alms. The official was quite unmindful of the august witness of his act and was rather pleased when, a few hours later, he was summoned to the imperial presence. Nicholas soon undeceived him and in the presence of a dozen courtiers cut him to the quick with his indignant reproof.

"Enough!" said Nicholas finally. "You will walk up and down that corridor all night, and every time you turn you will say in a loud voice: 'I am a puppy! I am a puppy.'"

Carried Out Instructions.

Every sailor has his story of the mistakes which landlubbers make over the names of things at sea, which always seem to be exactly the opposite of what they are on land.

A new boy had gone on board a West India ship, upon which a painter had also been employed to paint the ship's side. The painter was at work upon a staging suspended under the ship's stern.

The captain, who had just got into a boat alongside, called out to the new boy, who stood leaning over the rail, "Let go the painter!"

Everybody should know that a boat's painter is the rope which makes it fast, but this boy did not know it. He ran aft and let go the ropes by which the painter's staging was held. Meantime the captain was wearied with waiting to be cast off.

"You rascal!" he called. "Why don't you let go the painter?"

"He's gone, sir," said the boy briskly. "He's gone—pots, brushes and all!"—London Standard.

She Wanted to Know.

A little woman with wilton carpet floral designs on her hat came into the uptown Pennsylvania ticket office the other day and bought a ticket for a point down the state.

She gathered up her ticket and asked for a little folder because it had a picture on it in colors of a girl waving goodby to somebody from the end of a train. Then she placed her ticket inside her purse and the purse inside a little satchel and put the satchel inside her shopping bag, which she carried in a small alligator traveling bag. Just before she started out she inquired of City Passenger Agent Dillon, who had been waiting on her, "How long before my train starts?"

"You'll just about have time to make it," Dillon told her. "It leaves the Union station in about seventeen minutes."

"Seventeen minutes," she repeated "and is that by central time or eastern time?"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Humiliating.

Champ Clark frequently visited Washington before his election to the house and thought he was pretty well known there. On one occasion, says the Washington Star, he came to the capital on business for a client. He was surprised and pleased to meet an old friend and townsman at the hotel Mr. Clark had selected for his stay.

"Well, well, if it isn't Brown!" exclaimed Mr. Clark. "I'm glad to see you. Is there anything I can do for you?"

Then Mr. Clark took his friend by the arm and marched him to the hotel desk, saying, "I can do you a good turn, anyhow."

"Clerk," added Mr. Clark when they had reached that functionary, "this is my friend Mr. Brown. I want you to treat him right. Let him have what ever he wants, and if he gets too extravagant and runs out of cash just charge it to me."

"Why, yes," said the clerk, "I know Mr. Brown very well, sir, but who are you?"

She Got His Name.

"Little boy," asked the new teacher, "what is your name?"

"I'll have to write it for you, miss," he said hesitatingly.

"Why? My hearing is quite good! Your name, boy!"

"I'd rather not tell you."

"Surely you can't be ashamed of it?"

"No, miss, but"—

"Then we will not waste any more time, if you please! I am waiting!"

The small boy's eyes rolled wildly in their sockets, and his face became contorted with pain as he began:

"Kn-kuk-kuk-kuk-kuk-kuk-Clarence. That's my first name, miss. But m ther name is Pup-pup-pup-pup-fe dna! I never stutter 'cept when I'm speaking my name, and when I'm nagged like this I get a whole lo worse, miss."

Boy Accidentally Kills His Mother.

Mrs. Levi Seaman, who lived about one mile west of Hamburg, Pa., was accidentally shot and killed by her six-year-old son. The boy tried to pick up a shotgun. It was discharged, the shot entering his mother's back and penetrating the lungs.

Wild Parsnips Kill Two Boys.

Two sons of Jacob Garner, aged ten and twelve years, were found dead in a field at Hawthorne, near Kittaning, Pa., death having been caused by eating wild parsnips. A third boy is in a serious condition, but will recover.

Only a Mask.

Many are being benefited by the summer vacation as they should be. Now, notwithstanding much outdoor life, they are little if any stronger than they were. The tan on their faces is darker and makes them look healthier, but it is only a mask. They are still nervous, easily tired, upset by trifles, and they do not eat nor sleep well. What they need is what tones the nerves, perfects digestion, creates appetite, and makes sleep refreshing, and that is Hood's Sarsaparilla. Pupils and teachers generally will find the chief purpose of the vacation, best subserved by this great medicine which, as we know, "builds up the whole system."

Swindling the Farmers.

In the western part of the state a man came along and said he had been commissioned to test cows for farmers, to see if they were free from tuberculosis. In one place he told a man that 10 of his herd were affected that way, and he had better sell them for what he could get. The next day a man came along looking for cows to buy, and the farmer sold the 10 cows, and they were good ones for $15 a head. Then in a few days the farmer found out that he had been swindled.

Firemen's Convention.

The sixteenth annual convention of the Central Pennsylvania Volunteer Firemen's Association, will be held in Philipsburg, Thursday and Friday, August 20 and 21. The committees have spared no pains or time in making arrangements for a most successful meeting. Philipsburg is well known through the entire state for its open-handed hospitality, but on this occasion the citizens promise to entertain the firemen and their friends as they have never done before.

In addition to the firemen's sports they have secured the services of the Erhart Entertainers for both nights of the convention, which company consists of one hundred and twenty-five people. This is a beautiful open air entertainment by home talent in the shape of a minstrel and comic opera, which has met with wonderful success and favor with the people of that vicinity.

The Logan Fire Company of Bellefonte have made arrangements to attend the convention and will leave here this afternoon with about thirty uniformed men and the Coleville band.

The Sea Serpent Myth.

It is possible, even probable, that the sea serpent myth started in all good faith. In the southern seas grow the gigantic algae, the largest of which measure from 400 to 600 feet in length. These when rolled on the beach form enormous cables several hundred feet long and as thick as a good sized tree trunk. Such cables washed out to sea by storms may very easily have given rise to the farfamed but yet undiscovered sea serpent.—New York American.

Nice, Easy Job.

The following advertisement recently appeared in an English newspaper: "Man required for demonstration purpose an old English rack (star chamber pattern); would have to be slightly stretched to show how rack worked; man should be short to start with."

Quite Fortunate.

New Girl (timidly)—I s'pose you are a fine cook, mum? Young Mistress—Bless me, no! I don't know anything about it. New Girl (relieved)—Then we'll get along famously, mum. I don't either.—New York Journal.

The Pearl of Great Price.

"Put disposition above beauty," is the advice of a modern sage to the young man who thinks of taking to himself a wife. But it requires such a long time to discover disposition.—Providence Journal.

Conflicting.

"There is safety in numbers," quoted the wise guy.

"And yet we are told that too many cooks spoil the broth," added the simple mug.—Philadelphia Record.

The brave man may fall, but he cannot yield.—Irish Proverb.

Mary Fishburn

Mrs. Mary Fishburn, widow of Jacob Fishburn, died at her home at the Branch near Lemont, Thursday evening about six o'clock. She had been ill for about one month, heart trouble being the cause of her death.

Mrs. Fishburn, whose maiden name was Mary Hoy, was born at Jacksonville, this county and was aged about 68 years. She has resided in College township most of her life time. Her church membership was held with the Lutheran congregation and was a woman of excellent christian traits and lived an exemplary life.

She is survived by two sons, Thomas at home, and Frank, of Pine Grove Mills and two daughters, Mrs. Lyon Coleman, of Bellefonte, and Elizabeth, at home. One sister, Mrs. Samuel Isbler of Boalsburg, also survives.

James H Sharp Killed

James H. Sharp, a well known citizen of Hublersburg, this county, was killed by a Pennsylvania railroad freight train at the Vesper street crossing in Lock Haven Saturday afternoon. Mr. Sharp had been visiting his brother-in-law, Samuel Varetta, and was within a block of the house, walking on the tracks when he was struck by the train and killed.

The deceased was aged about 74 years and was well known throughout this section of the state, having traveled about for many years giving his show in school houses and halls in the towns and villages. There are very few people in this section who have not seen him play the "Babes in the Wood," "Peter Hontz" and "Punch and Judy." Mr. Sharp, or as he was known in his show days "Peter Hontz," was renowned as a ventriloquist and slight of hand performer and drew large crowds of the young folks wherever he produced his show.

He is survived by his wife and several children. The funeral took place at Hublersburg Monday.

Cow Tackled Porcupine

The life of a very valuable cow belonging to Mrs. George Harris, at Jersey Mills, Lycoming county was saved in a unique manner a day or two ago. The cow had evidently engaged in a combat with a porcupine, for when she returned home her nose was a perfect pin cushion, and the cow was evidently suffering great agony. Mrs. Harris got several men to try to remove the quills, but they were unable to do so. The animal's condition became so bad that it was determined to kill her to put her out of her misery. About this time Foreman Flook, of the New York Central telegraph department and his men, came along, and while the men held the cow Mr. Flook, with the aid of his wire pincers, drew out every quill, and the cow is now recovering.

Essay About an Auto

A Punxsutawney school girl was required to write an essay of 250 words about an automobile. She submitted the following: "My uncle bought an automobile. He was riding in the country when it busted going up a hill. I guess this is about 50 words. The other 200 are what my uncle said when he was walking back to town, but they are not fit for publication." If all the words unfit for publication which were uttered by autoists who traveled over the recently repaired portion of South Spring street were recorded it would make an essay about the size of the Congressional Record.
